

ENHANCE YOUR FRANCOPHONE AND INTERNATIONAL CAREER OPPORTUNITIES
THROUGH

FRENCH FOR THE PROFESSIONS

Summer 2007

First Four Week Session

French 315

cross listed with

International Business

Advanced Interdisciplinary Studies in French Professional Communication

First Four Weeks Summer Session June 19-July 12, 2007
TWR 8:55-12:05 in 274 Van Hise - 3 credits

Course is open to graduates and undergraduates
Course is conducted entirely in French
Opportunity for individual research projects

- Unique course designed for students planning to study or work in the Francophone global world
- Major focus - theory & practice of French professional communication – or how to succeed in the Francophone global world!
- Course for students with a passion for French culture and goals of using French professionally to succeed in the international francophone world
- Course for students in French, business, journalism, communication arts, law, international relations, the sciences, economics, engineering, psychology, etc.
- Course counts toward the French major or the Certificate in French Studies for students in the School of Business
- Course counts for elective in the French major in either civilization/culture or language
- Course may be taken for 3 or 4 credits and for Honors
- Course stands on its own – students may take F315 before F313 or F314
- French 313 is offered in the fall; French 314 in the spring; French 315 in summer
- Pre-requisites: French 228 or 288 or 311 or consent of instructor:
- Professor Janet Caulkins - 658 Van Hise Hall - caulkins@wisc.edu
- Please email her if you have questions regarding F313, F314, or F315 or the Certificate in French Studies for students in the School of Business